What separates the best from the rest? The best have systems not just for their real estate businesses but for themselves. They have harnessed the power of performance management skills to challenge themselves, to manage their time effectively, to build credibility and develop a personal vision. This course will show you how to eliminate the obstacles that prevent you from getting to that next level in your business and personal life.

Course Objectives:
• Know how to recognize and eliminate self sabotage
• Challenge yourself to expect and achieve more in the important areas of your life
• Develop a personal vision for your business and life to gain tools for achievement
• Minimize resistance to change and power your performance as a result
